

I work third shift and must sleep during the day or early evening. Having the number of telemarketing calls reduced to almost none has made it easier for me to sleep, which has made me a more productive employee.

I also resent unwanted telephone calls coming in to my home on a telephone line I pay for. If the telemarketers want to make calls to me, let them pay for my telephone line. Then I would be happy to let them call as much as they want to.
